

Super? You bet!

With all the attention given to which way the Democrats' super delegates would swing, it's fitting that NALC members at the Boston convention will be able to become "Super Delegates," too.

It's easy—all you have to do is hit the "trifecta for political change" by getting on board with the three key components of NALC's political action program:

- Enroll as an automatic "Gimme 5" contributor to COLCPE
- Sign up as an e-Activist
- Enlist in the Carrier Corps

Do all three and you qualify for a special Super Delegate T-shirt, available only to politically savvy convention-goers.

Delegates who already qualify need only stop at the Legislative and Political Affairs booth in the registration area to claim their shirts. Other will be able to take the steps to join their super brothers and sisters quickly and easily.

Haven't been able to pledge your 10 hours as a volunteer in the Carrier Corps? Drop by, sign up and you'll also receive your nationally recognized NALC blue activist T-shirt.

Had trouble enrolling as an automatic donor to COLCPE? Just bring your USPS PIN or your checkbook and legislative staffers will be ready with computers and all the other info you need to get started donating $5 (or more) per pay period ($5 monthly for annuitants).

Not one of the 150,000-plus registered NALC legislative activists? All you need is an e-mail address and convention staffers will help you sign up as an e-Activist so you'll receive the latest legislative alerts from Headquarters.

Remember, if you are already an e-Activist, a member of the Carrier Corps, and a "Gimme 5 for COLCPE" contributor, be sure to stop by and collect your "I hit the trifecta for political change" T-shirt.

Also featured at the Legislative and Political booth will be details on the special COLCPE raffles with prizes including a flat-screen TV and a trip for two to the World Series.

Staff members will be ready to answer all your political questions, including queries about election contests in your state, what the NALC does for letter carriers in the realm of politics and legislation, and how your union gets it done—with the help of NALC's Super Delegates. ☒
