Dear Brian:

The United Food and Commercial Workers International Union (UFCW) is once again proud to be a national partner of the National Association of Letter Carriers (NALC) 32nd annual Stamp Out Hunger food drive on Saturday, May 11, 2024—the largest single-day food drive in our country. Our partnership in previous years has helped to reduce food insecurity in America and we're looking forward to doing even more for families in our communities this year.

Millions of Americans are vulnerable to food insecurity because of a missed paycheck, job loss, or catastrophic illness. According to Feeding America, more than 44 million people in the U.S. face hunger, including one in five children. That's why the Stamp Out Hunger food drive is so important. This food drive helps to replenish supplies at food banks nationwide so that people who are grappling with food insecurity have a way to access healthy food.

The UFCW is proud to represent thousands of essential workers who are employed in grocery stores and meatpacking and food processing plants in communities across the country. Our members played a key role in helping to feed America's families during the COVID-19 pandemic, and they are dedicated to making sure that everyone has access to the basic necessities for a healthy life. The NALC's members also played an important role during the pandemic by keeping homebound people in touch with friends and family members through the mail, as well as delivering critical necessities. Both of our organizations are in a unique position to make a meaningful difference in the lives of those who are struggling with food insecurity.

The UFCW is working with our members, employers, friends, and allies to make this year's Stamp Out Hunger food drive a success. Together, we can help fight hunger in America and show our friends, neighbors, and community members who are struggling to feed their families that they are not alone.

Sincerely,
