Dear Reader,

Thank you for subscribing to National Association of Letter Carriers Bulletin. We hope you find this edition informative and relevant to your professional interests.

This issue focuses on the National Association of Letter Carriers (NALC) and its activities, including the biennial convention, which was held in August 2016. The convention featured speeches by NALC President Fredric Rolando, who discussed the union's priorities and strategies, as well as reports from various committees and officers.

The Bulletin also includes special features such as interviews with key figures in the postal industry, news articles on labor relations and legislative issues, and updates on NALC members' achievements.

We encourage you to share this issue with your colleagues and to contribute to our discussions by sending us your thoughts and ideas. We look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Your Editors
