Every contribution helps support the NALC team

In a team effort, the contributions of every member of the team count, regardless of how often they take the field. In the struggle to protect the interests of letter carriers on Capitol Hill, COLCPE relies on the donors who make regular contributions through payroll deduction to provide a steady flow of cash. But some donors make direct contributions, and their support for the cause is equally appreciated.

These “occasional” donors show their support for COLCPE in several ways. Some respond to our appeals for help by mailing a check. Others write checks at branch meetings and events, including special events that letter carriers organize around the country to benefit COLCPE. Many of these carriers learned about the importance of COLCPE, including the fact that union dues cannot be used for political purposes, from dedicated letter carriers who take the initiative to urge their fellow carriers to give.

No matter how these carriers choose to support COLCPE, they are making a wise investment in their future. Their donations give COLCPE the resources it needs to help candidates sympathetic to labor and letter carriers in their campaigns to win election, including the release of 152 letter carriers nationally in 2010 to work full-time as campaign staff members in critical races. With their organizing skills, physical stamina and knowledge of neighborhoods, letter carriers make valued campaign workers.

Like the list of regular donors, these donors are listed alphabetically by state, in number order by branch, and then in alphabetical order by last name.

This list includes donors whose contributions were recorded without enough information to establish their identity fully. An example would be a money order accompanied by a name but no hometown or branch number. Another could be the use of a nickname not recorded in NALC’s computer database, or a name that is shared by more than one member. Some may be Auxiliary members who did not identify themselves as such, or other supporters who failed to make their status clear.
